Mechline or Magnaline...

Mechline A like for like replacement

Mechline is a mechanically sealed pump that prevents fluid from leaking during operation.

The mechanical sealed pumps are financially more economical, due to the shaft seal design.

The main difference of the mechanically sealed pump is its designation of high or low temperature, with the pump designed to be coupled directly to an electric motor of flange type and, also with options of a pressure relief valve.

Magnaline Improved magnetic seal

Magnaline is a magnetically sealed pump that is completely leak free, requiring very low maintenance.

As these type of pumps contain no seals, they are very reliable, and entail very low maintenance plans keeping costs to a minimum. Installation is also very easy, as there is no need for alignment of motor/pump.
